For You:

The Students of Winters High School

Our Campus

Winters High School

Winters, Texas

We are here, our dear old high,
To laud your glories to the sky.
Colors, white and blue,
And, we'll stand by you.

Alma Mater

We will wave, our colors gay,
As we go fighting on our way.
For our grand old High School, dear,
We'll never fail, never fail,
Hip, Hip, Hurray!

Foreword

I would like to introduce myself. I am the 1965 edition of THE GLACIER.

I am a book about you, the students of Winters High School. I hold your class pictures, your organizations, clubs, and team pictures. In me, you will find the highlights of your 1964-65 school year--including records of your sports events and candid snaps of you and your friends at work and at play.

I was created for you. At your fingertips I hold for you the memories of laughter and of tears, battles won and lost, and the friendships gained while working and playing together.

I will remind you of ballgames, pep rallies, bus trips, heated school elections, and queens and sweethearts. You will remember the tantalizing smell of food as you waited in the chow line at the cafeteria. You will remember the wonderful teachers and wonder why you didn't work a little harder. As you leaf through me, you will remember a very special day, a special night, a special friend.

I was designed and edited by seven students and one sponsor. As the years pass, may I become more dear to you, students of Winters High School, because I am about you, I am by you, I am for you. Take care of me and treasure me forever.

D is for determination

E is for enthusiasm

D is for devotion

I is for instruction

C is for congeniality

A is for ability

T is for tactfulness

I is for ingenuity

O is for originality

N is for nobility

We, the members of the 1964-65 GLACIER Staff, feel that the person to whom we wish to dedicate our whole year's work possesses all of these qualifications. It is with respect and sincere appreciation that we dedicate the 1964-65 edition of the GLACIER to MRS. VELMA SHOEMAKE.

To The Class of 1965:

It has been a privilege to share with you the experiences that have made the year 1964-65 an outstanding school year. I congratulate you for your efforts in school activities and scholastic studies. It is my hope that you have acquired a desire to achieve, a sense of responsibility and the moral integrity to choose the right.

May your life continue to one of success and happiness and of value to your community, nation, and fellow citizens.

Elaine's speed, shooting skill, and determination enabled her to be an outstanding Blizzardette. She ended the season with a very high scoring average. This placed her on the 2nd team All-District.

Ann Bean, another fine Blizzardette, made the first team All-District.

Ginger Ivie, Junior, was placed along with Elaine on the 2nd team All-District.

This is a group of very happy girls leaving the court after playing hard and winning a necessary district game.

Andy
 Well, we've finally made it. Yes, this is our last opportunity to tell all our friends how much we think of them, or don't think of 'em, to say "thanks" and to say goodbye. Now also got our last chance to say something to keep each other from forgetting us — and I don't think of a good way to do any of it. All I can say is "Thanks, Andy, for just being you. I hope I don't sail too farward or sentimental when I say that of all the boys I've known in my four years of high school, I'll miss you the most. Your friends will always be with you. Stay as good and kind as you've been the last year, and you'll make the world at your feet. You'll never know how truly grateful I am to you for just being a friend because there ~~are~~ ^{is} no one else I don't see in the world to tell you. Good luck and goodbye. Love again, Joyce

"Okay men--move in! We've got them covered!"

"I've got them fooled....they think I can play the piano!!"

"Winters' Leading Industry" 'The Red Bean Factory'

"...and people wonder why Goldwater lost!"

"Don't look back now Andy--but you're being followed."

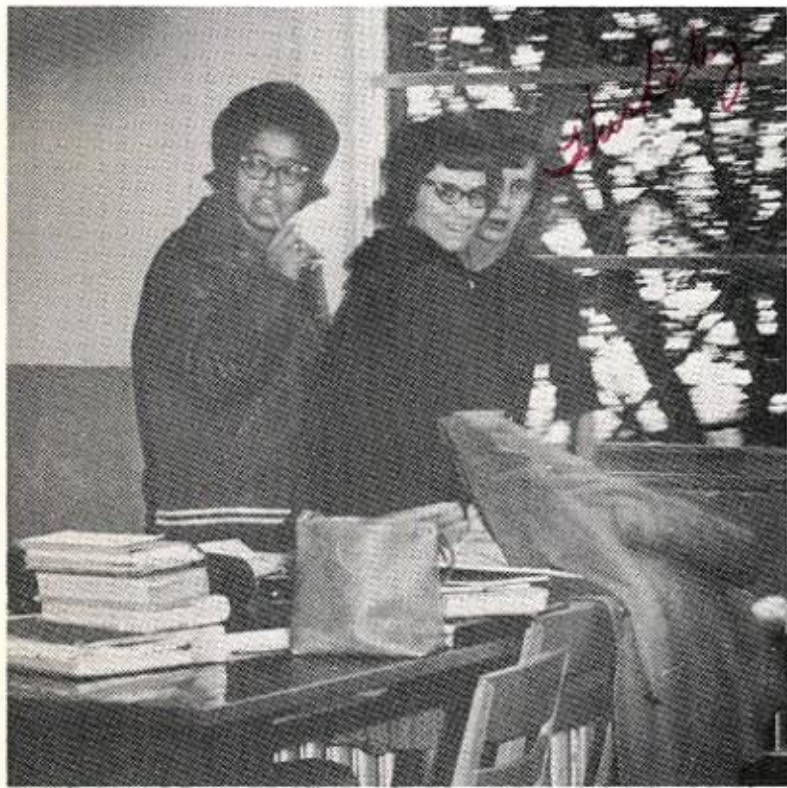

"Hail, hail the gangs all here..."

Candid Camera

"Security is having my pillow handy."

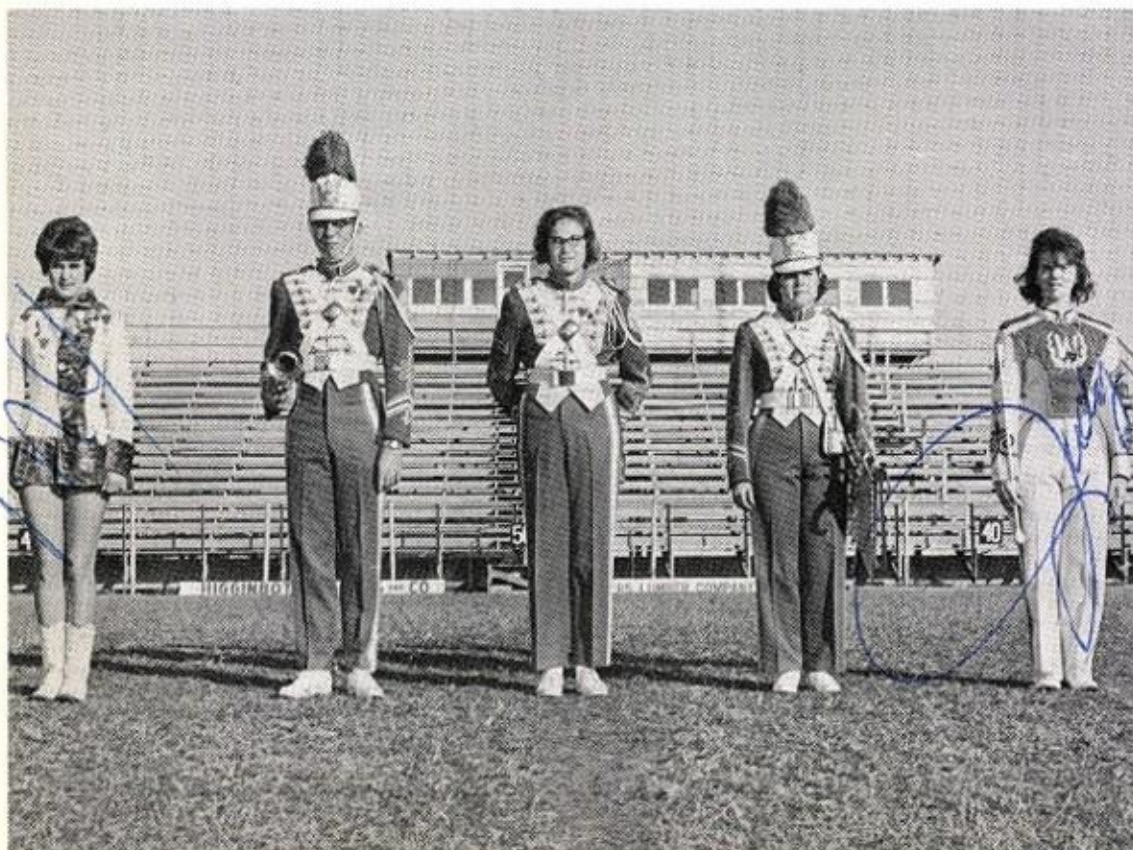

"Whoops!! We bit it!"

"Question no. 14. Where are the goals located?"

"Our band seems to be getting smaller every year."

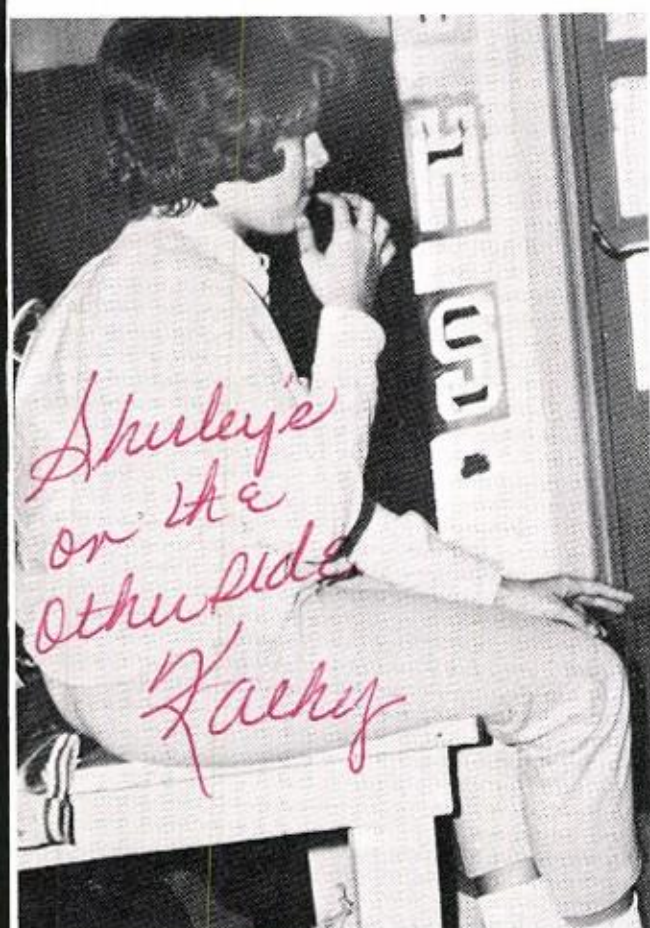

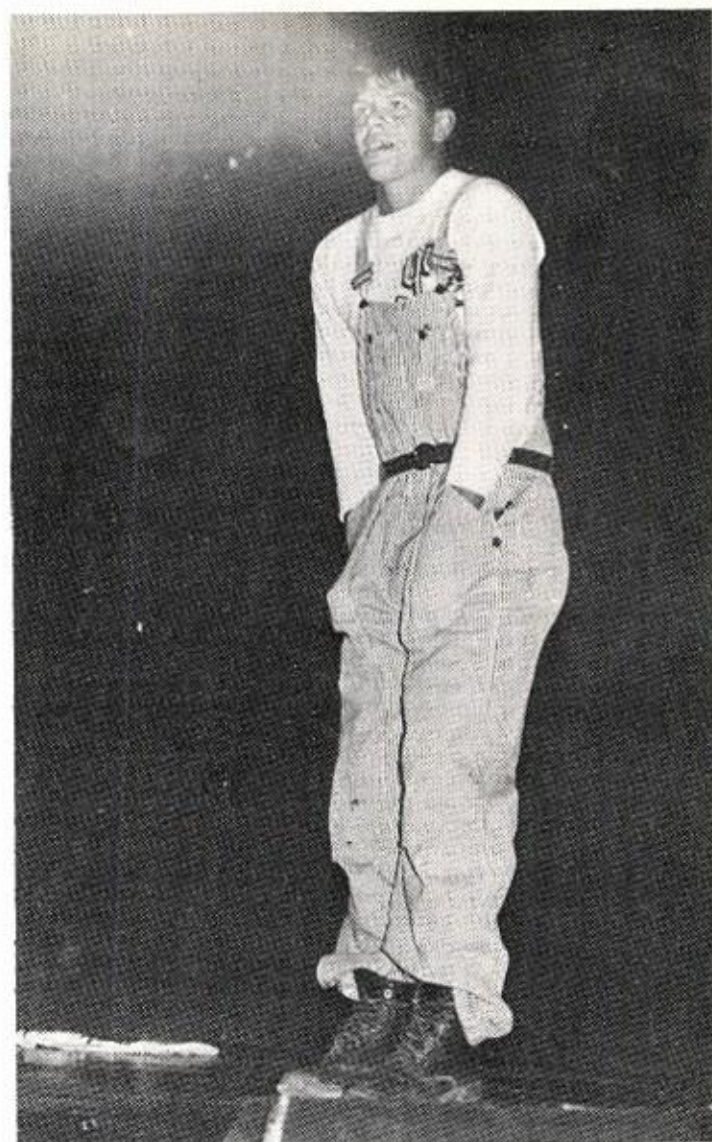

"Just where does that boy think he's going, anyhow??"

Mr. Gans was determined to get that garage.

"....two snakes, one yoyo, four ABC gums, three busted fountain pens, one melted crayola, sixteen jelly beans, one rotten apple, one picture of Alfred E. Newman, Mr. Warfield's love letter, t. v. from behind stage, and the key to Mr. Christians's office. And you think I'll trade all this for your 1877 Indian Head?"

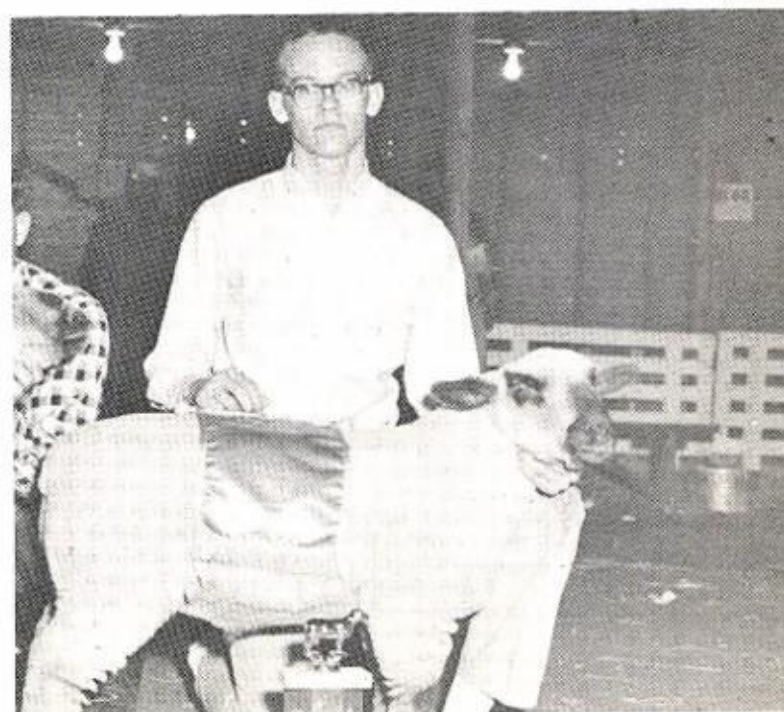

"Candid Camera"

That fist was how big, Skippy?

June, did you chicken out?

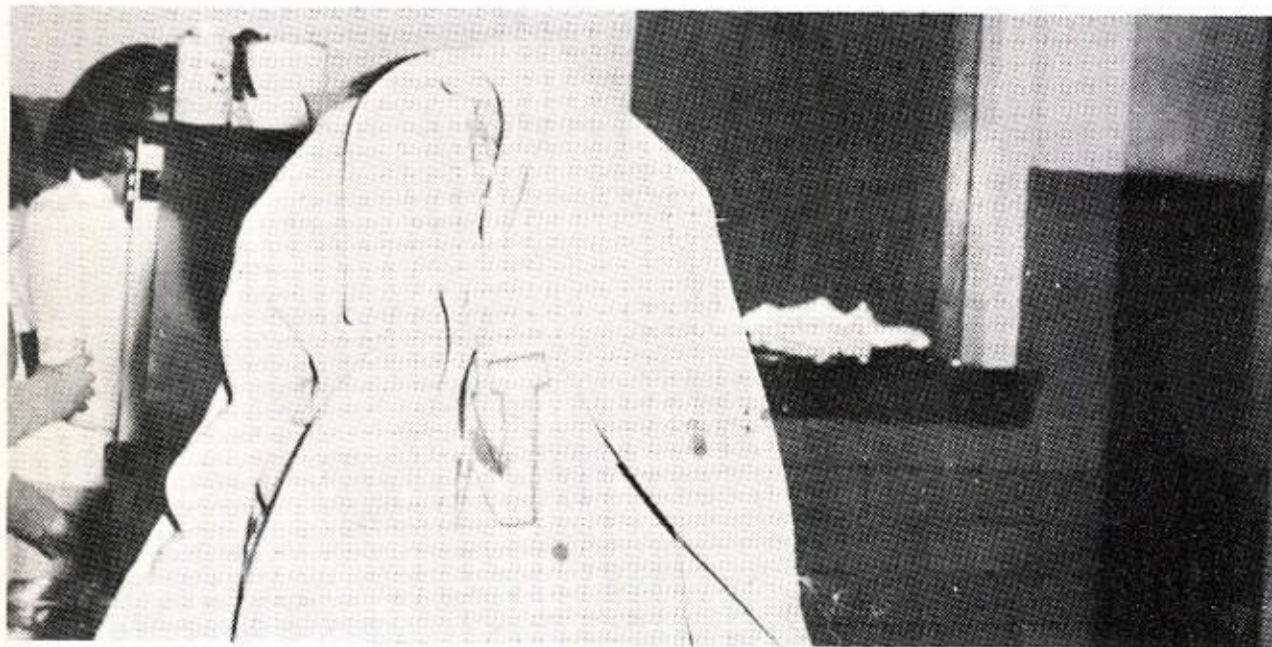

Did Gene or the sheep win the prize?

"Turn the stereo up Ma!"

"Boy, these wings are getting heavy!"

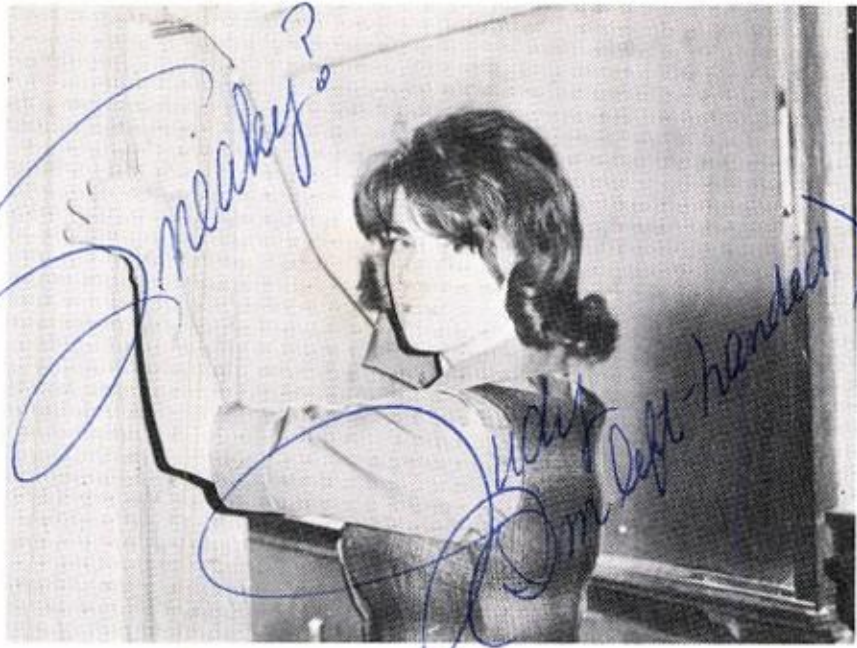

"Who do you think you are..... A coat rack!!!"

"Candid Camera"

"Silent night, holy night....."

"The School's Right-Hand Men!"

"Judy, I'd be ashamed--stealing Mrs. Bauer's slip!"

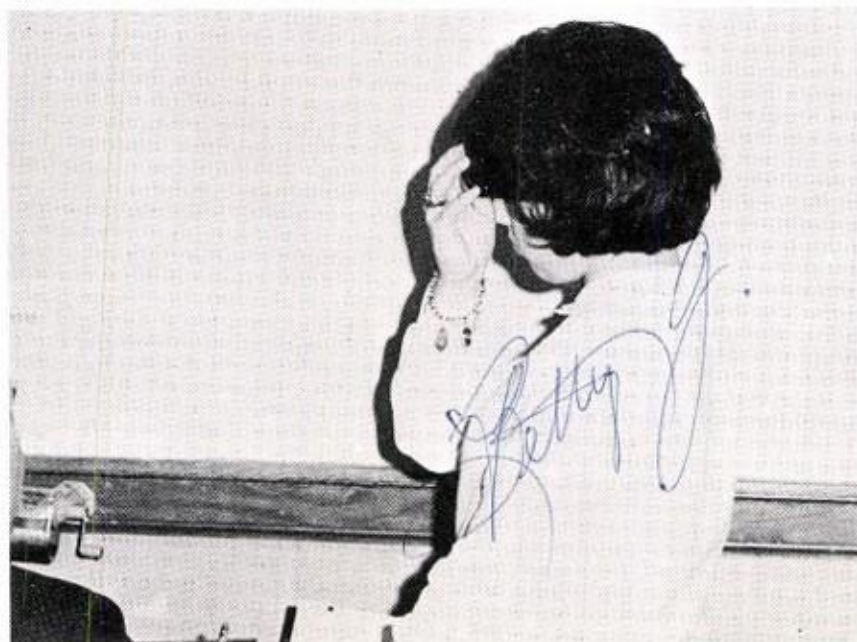

"Hey! You were supposed to be absent!"

What would Mr. Christian and Mrs. Smith do without them?

Office Girls

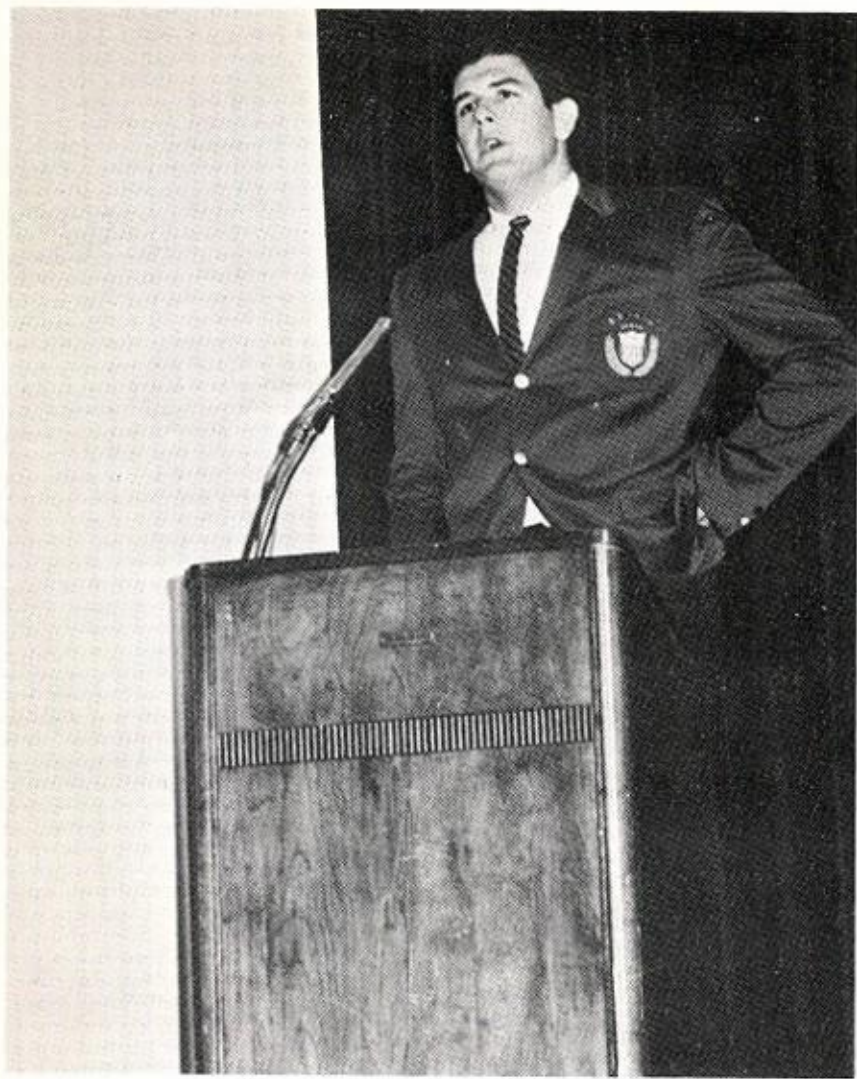

Betty Shoemake, Becky Brown, Judy Matthews, June Puckett, Shirley Lindsey, Sally Patterson, Dianne Huckaby, Ann Bean, Louise Adami, Kathy Shaw, Shirley Heath, Toni Eoff, Roselyn Kraatz.

"Orders from the top."

"They'll never find out where I buried the telephone!"

"Actually, a girl threw it farther than I did.....we can't win 'em all!"

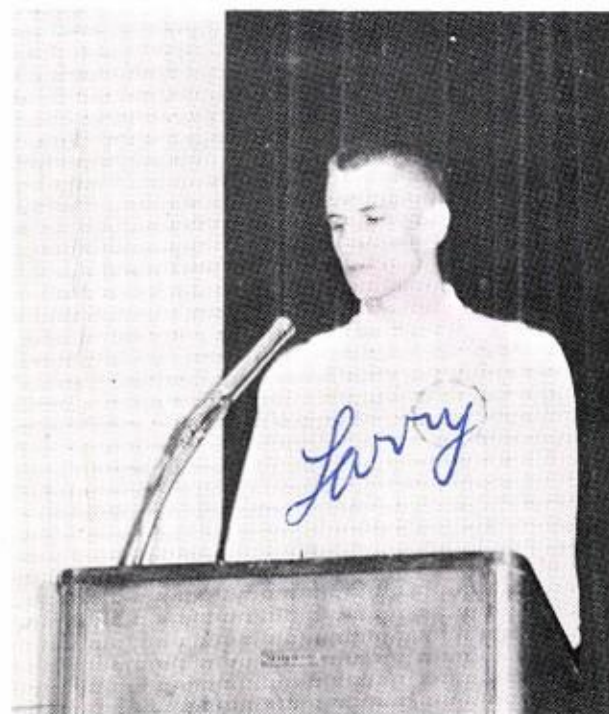

"So what if we don't have a car?"

"This is an example of our teacher shortage; we use what we can get!"

"Assembly Snaps"

"I'm warning them.....I'll quit if I don't get the Baby Grand next time."

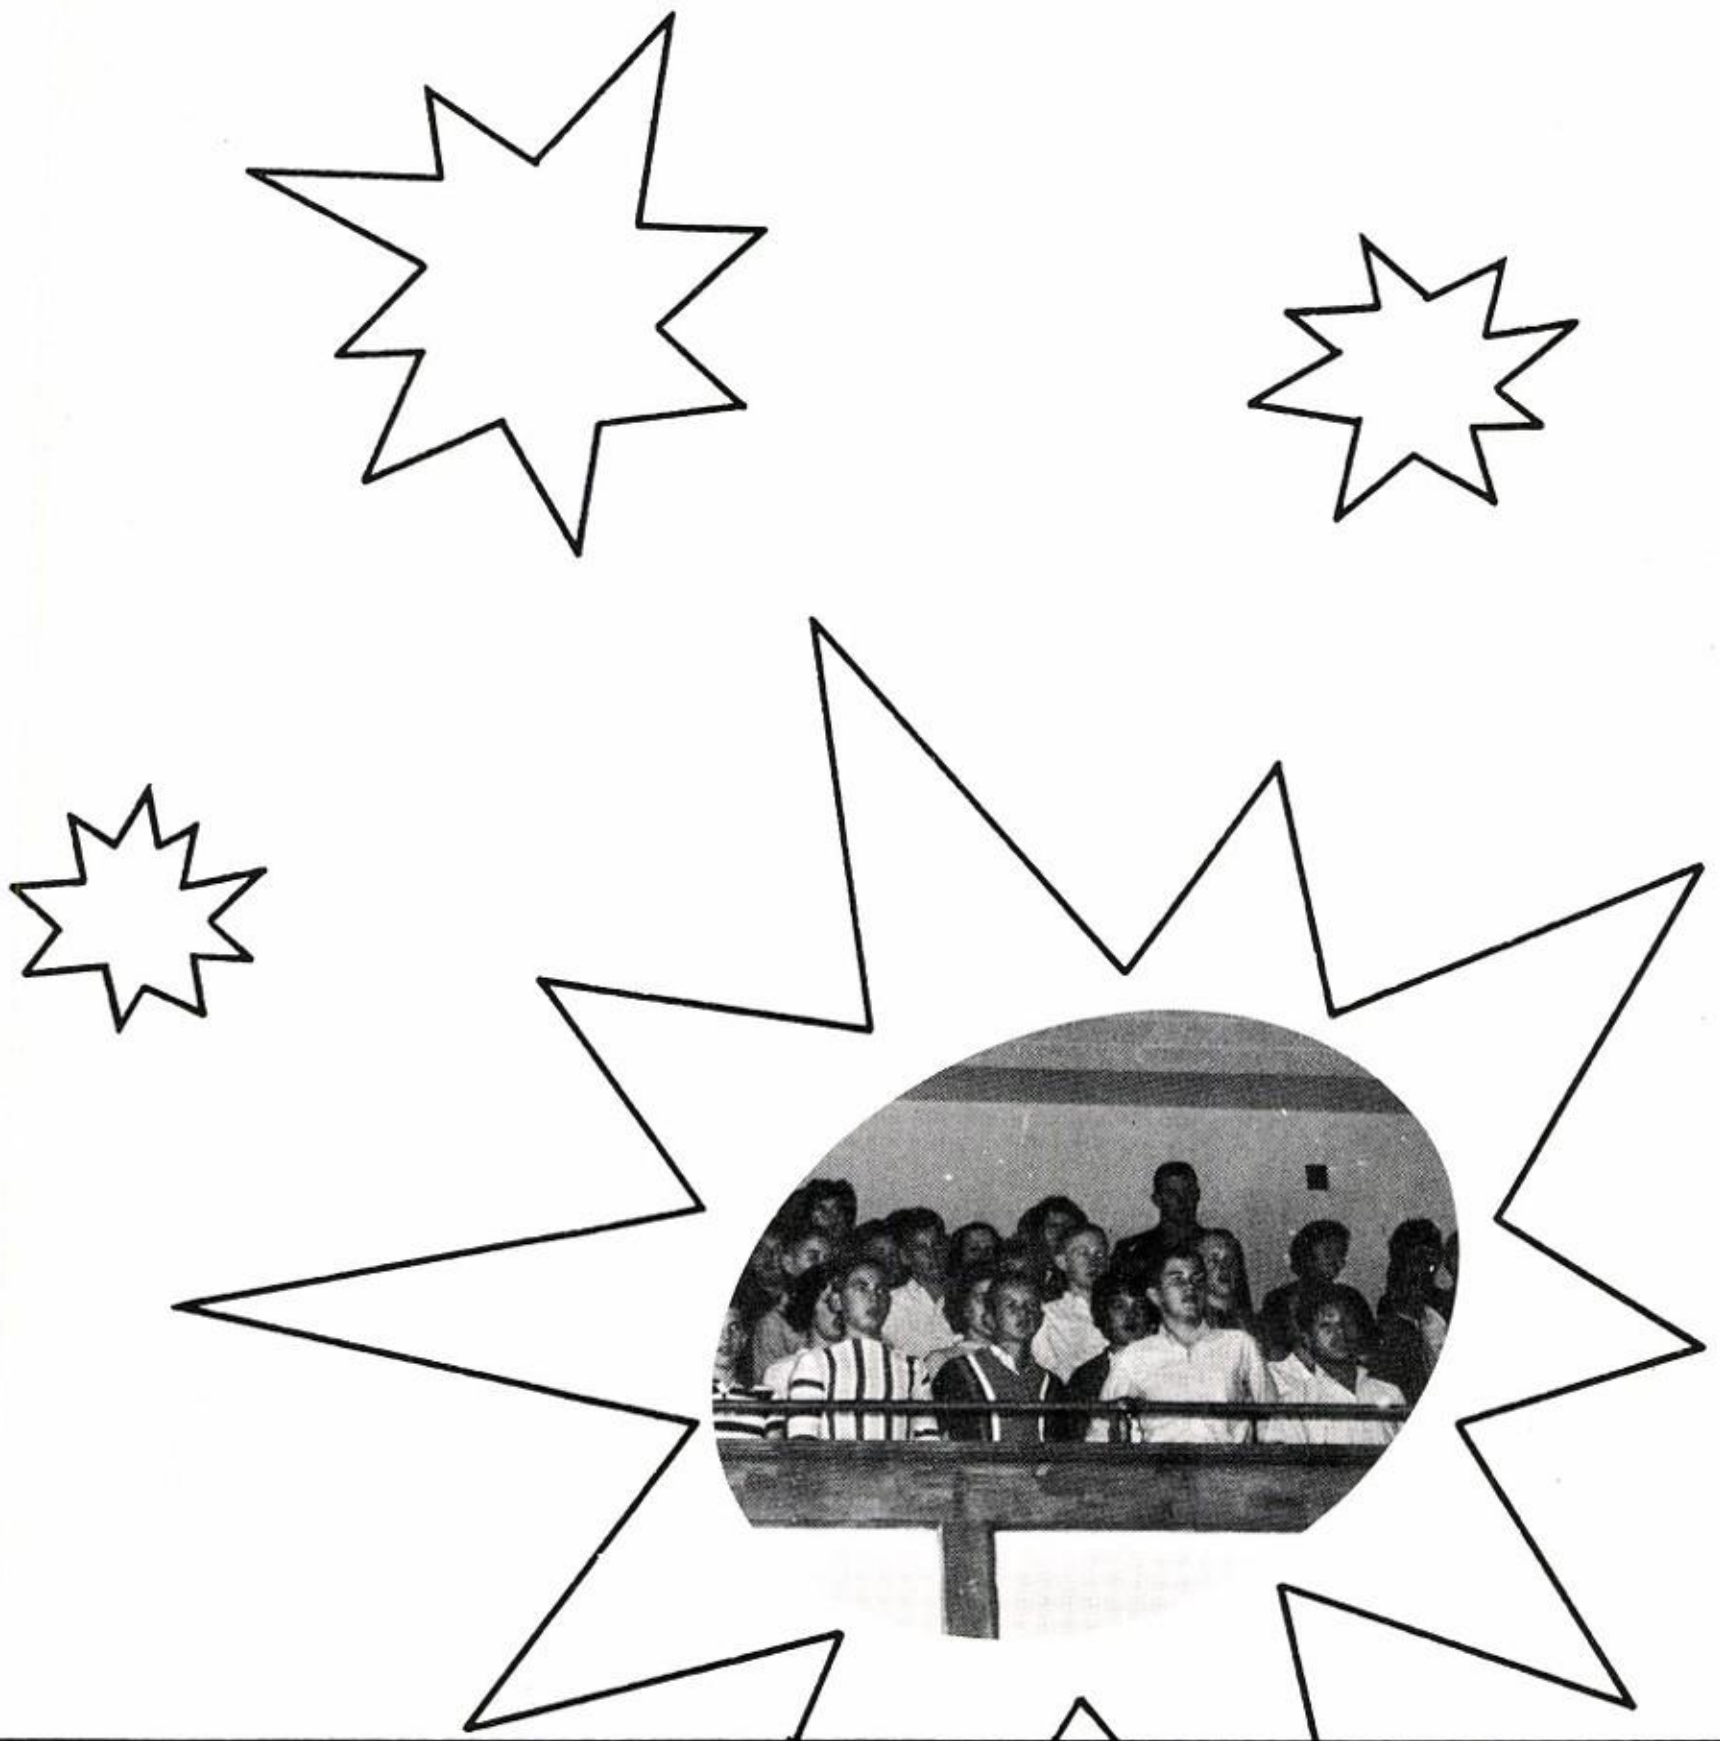

".... And so, my fellow Americans,..."

"Do-re-mi...."

Just how do you spell "Liberty?"

Oh, how I pity those eighth graders in Freshman English.

Well, don't just stand there girls,
"Twirl!"

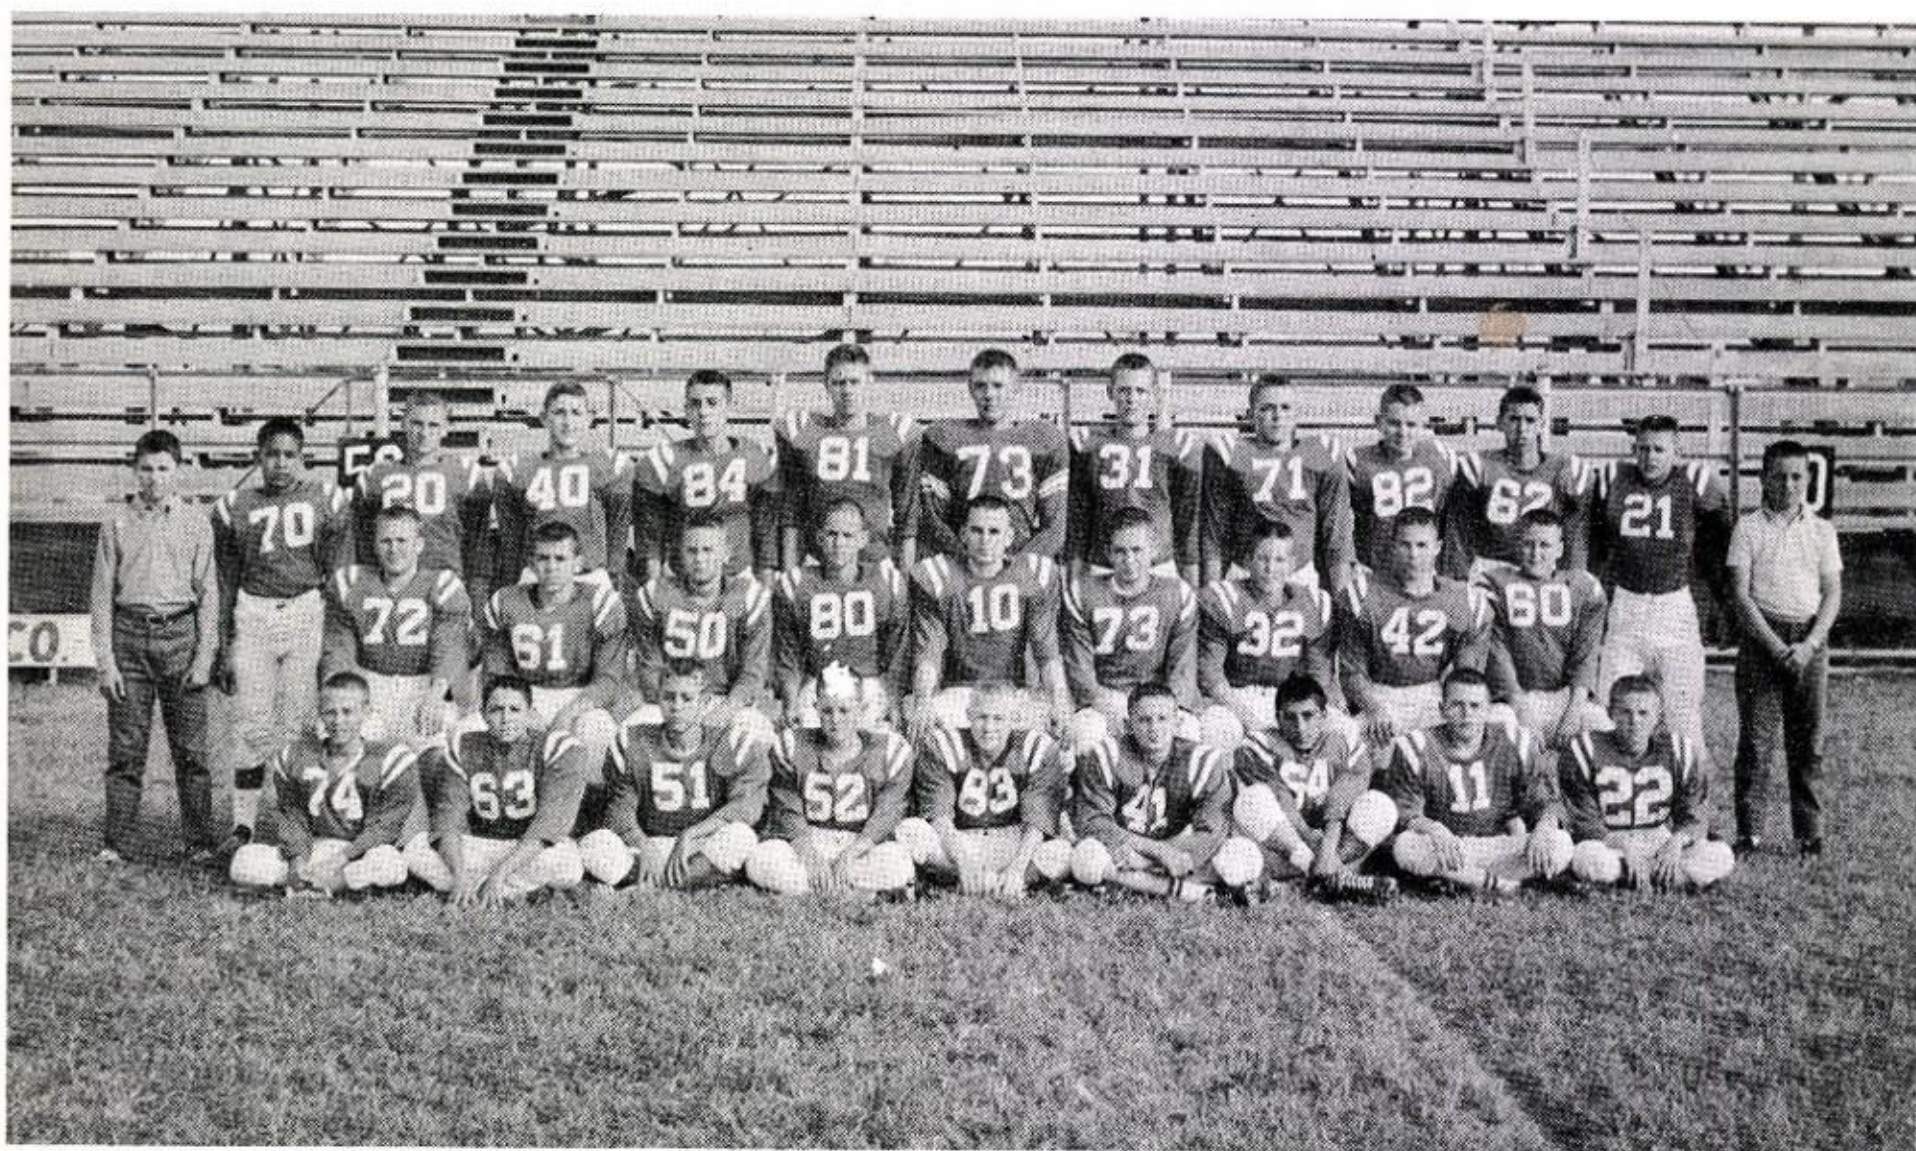

I guess that'll teach 'em to write the answers in the pencil trays.

Dear Andy,

Well, this year is just about over, but we've had a good time. I'll never forget all those great nights that we rode around and boozed it up and did all those other things. Like the night we spent over at your house when you
& me and Spill and Sprinkle &
Joan baked that chocolate cake at 3 in the morning and then went out and looked for things in the Mexican houses. It was really fun. I know that I've never had a more wonderful friend and buddy, and I know that you'll be well-liked in college. You're just the kind of person that people naturally like. I wish for you the best of luck always, Andy, because you're a great person and I'll remember your friendship and cherish it forever.

Your buddy,
Mike

P.S. I hope you never drink alone; it's so depressing.

DEPOSITS
ARE THE RAINDROPS
BANKS
ARE THE RESERVOIRS

One raindrop cannot nourish a field of growing crops nor run a mill wheel. Neither can $5.00 in John Smith's pocket meet the credit needs of a community.

But when hundreds of "John Smiths" make deposits in the bank, a "reservoir" is created which provided a basis for greater service to individual farmers, stockmen and to the area in which the bank operates.

In this way, banks and their depositors work together for mutual benefit.

Andy,
 It is almost over for us seniors. I sure I can speak for you as well as me in saying it's been a memorable experience. We've sure had some pretty good times after 3:00 o'clock in the afternoon. Reckon' Mrs. Kline will ever get over your F.T.R. trip?? I know you will be a hit at M=erry next fall and give em' hell for me.

Sincerely,
 Richard Sted

(Bobbie Sue)

Well, here goes. I guess since you're a little special, I won't use a red pen. It's really a problem when I try to write what I think and feel. I just can't imagine what school would have been without you. When I was a freshman I just knew that I'd never feel for anyone like I felt for you. It seems that everything I said I wouldn't do, I've done. You completely changed high school for me.

Can you possibly remember everything that's happened. Just take F. J. H. When I think of that club, the first thing I remember is the day, right at the first of school, when we had a meeting at dinner. You came galavanting up the walk with that senior ring on your hand. To this day, I don't know how I kept from crying. I nearly did, but somehow I held it back. It really couldn't have worked out much better, though, could it. Don't forget all the mess we made about the state convention. Mrs. Kruse aged 10 years after we tried to get me a chance to go.

And then there were football games. I always ended up being late when we twirled on the field, because I was watching you. And, of course, after the games! You were always hot and tired and most of the time I was tired but ready for something to happen. Maybe you don't remember it that ^{way}! Out-of-town games were always different because we were never sure about our date afterwards, were we. My dad always kept me waiting for an answer. I'll never forget the night Coach Bryant told me you had already gone. For a minute there I believed him. And, don't forget the football banquet. You got your jacket and comely accepted it. I was so excited. I won't forget that because you gripped about not having a patch on the leather sleeve. That night was really something.

And then there's always M. G. J. It seemed unusual to me that anytime I was telling someone about you, that I could always say, "This M. G. J. and F. J. H. president."

Any girl wants to go ~~(Bobbie Sue)~~ with a popular and important boy, but you took the cake. I was always so proud when you'd take over at a meeting. I guess that's one reason you appealed to me so much ~~was~~ because you were so important. Boy, did I wish for your authority the day that we decorated for the Sweetheart Banquet. If you had been there, things would have been a lot easier. I was never so glad to see you as that afternoon when you walked in. And then the banquet, I would have turned purple if that speaker had used my name. I think I did anyway, because you kept telling me I was turning red. Oh, well, I guess that's our last one!

It seems unreal when I remember the trouble we had with your ring. I remember that I had told you that I couldn't have it; then, every date after that I tried everything I knew to make you give it to me. Then I got it and gave it back and got it again. I guess I should have kept it. But maybe between us that ring is better off where it is. Even though you'd like to have it, and in a way, I would, too. That ring was probably one of the most active there was.

We've had our good times and our bad ones. Even after dating me for two years, I don't think you understand me. I guess it would be asking too much for someone to really understand all of my moods, but you've done a splendid job. You've been patient and understanding about almost everything. Whether you realize it or not, you've changed tremendously since we first began dating. You're so much older now, I don't mean years, I mean mentally. Everytime I see you, I find myself looking at a man, rather than the boy I used to know. It really seems unbelievable that you'll be in college. You know, no matter how we had worked it, we couldn't have fixed things the way they are now - you in college and me living in the same town. After school starts, you're going to think that my feelings for you have changed. But they won't. Just promise me that you'll trust me. And please, understand that two years is a long time. I won't just throw it all away. I think that, now, since we've gotten things straightened out, that we'll be happier for a longer time.

You know, I was just thinking about you and me and it seems like years ago since we had to doable. I'll never forget how proud you were of that car. (Even if it was a rambler!) Oh, and how scared I was that day I called and you said you had had a wreck. Even though Sam had just bumped you, I could see the car completely ruined and you completely ruined. Boy, you scared me to death that day.

Oh, and remember all the times you helped me babysit. I actually think Sandi and Murry have ~~come~~ become as attached to you as I have. They always got excited when they knew that Andy was coming over. And remember the night we took Sandi to the show? That was so funny when you leaned over and kissed and she threw such a fit.

Well, it seems that I've rambled on past my two pages, hope you don't mind. I guess I'll close and not take up any more room. Maybe someone else will finally get around to signing this thing.

Since this is the last time for your "Glorious" to be signed I suppose you'll keep this one. (I will ^{remember}) Love ya lots, even ^{though} you do kiss better in the day time - Love You,

Bobbie Sue
